

PLATYPUS POLICE SQUAD

KALAMAZOO CITY

ZENGO AND O'MALLEY'S READING RIGHTS

1. You have the right to remain silent while reading. You also have the right to giggle, guffaw, sigh, howl, exclaim, and even bawl (at any really sad parts).
2. You have the right to a teacher, librarian, or bookseller who will help you find just the right book.
3. You have the right to share a book with others.
4. You have the right to stay up all night reading.
5. You have the right to read a book more than once.
6. You have the right to a sequel. If a sequel hasn't been provided for you, you have the right to write one yourself.
7. You have the right to judge a book by its cover. Or judge it by anything else—as the reader, it's your book.
8. You have the right to choose the books that you want to read.
9. You have the right to turn off the TV or computer and pick up a book instead.
10. You have the right to explore, dream, and learn through books.

For more from the official desk of the Platypus Police Squad, visit www.harpercollinschildrens.com

Anything you say (or think!) about a book can and will be used for discussion in book club, conversation with friends, inspiring your imagination, and developing your worldview.

WALDEN POND PRESS
An Imprint of HarperCollinsPublishers

Poster art © 2013 by Jarrett J. Krosoczka

